Brewster's
MillionsCopyright, 1904,

(RICHARD CREAVES)

"If I didn't have to meet her eyes," he said to himself, "I could go on discussing even politics with her, but the moment she looks at me I know she can see what I'm thinking about." From the first they considered themselves very good friends, and after their third meeting it seemed perfectly natural that they should call one another by their first names. Monty knew he was treading on dangerous ground. It never occurred to him to wonder what Barbara might think of him. He took it as a matter of course that she must feel more than friendly toward him. As they rode through the maze of carriages they bowed frequently to friends as they passed. They were conscious that some of the women, noticeably old Miss Dexter, actually turned around and gazed at them.

"Aren't you afraid people will talk about us?" asked Monty, with a laugh. "Talk about our riding together in the park? It's just as safe here as it would be in Fifth avenue. Besides, who cares? I fancy we can stand it."

"You're a thoroughbred, Barbara. I simply didn't want you talked about. When I go too far, say the word and drop me."

"I have a luncheon at 2, but until then we have our ride."

Monty gasped and looked at his watch. "Five minutes to 1!" he cried. The matter of his engagement with the attorney had quite escaped him. In the exhilaration of Miss Brewster's companionship he had forgotten even Uncle James' millions.

"I've got a date at 1 that means life and death to me. Would you mind taking me down to the nearest elevated—or here, let me run it."

Almost before Barbara was aware of what was happening under had changed places, and the machine, under Monty's guidance, was tearing over the ground.

"Of all the casual people!" said the girl, by no means unequal to the excitement. "I believe you're kidnapping me."

But when she saw the grim look on Monty's face and one policeman after another warned him she became seriously alarmed. "Monty Brewster, this pace is positively dangerous."

"Perhaps it is," he responded, "but if they haven't sense enough to keep out of the way they shouldn't kick if they get run over."

"I don't mean the people or the automobiles or traps or trees or monuments, Monty. I mean you and me. I know we'll either be killed or arrested."

"This isn't anything to the gall I'll be going if everything turns out as I expect. Don't be worried, Babes. Besides, it's I now. Lord, I didn't dream it was so late!"

"Is your appointment so important?" she asked, hanging on.

"Well, I should say it is, and—look out, you blooming idiot! Do you want to get killed?" The last remark was hurled back at an indignant pedestrian who had escaped destruction by the merest chance.

"Here we are," he said as they drew up beside the entrance to the elevated. "Thanks awfully—you're a corker—sorry to leave you this way. I'll tell you all about it later. You're a dear to help me keep my appointment."

"Seems to me you helped yourself," she cried after him as he darted up the steps. "Come up for tea some day and tell me who the lady is."

Barbara turned to her companion, who was in the tannet; then she laughed unreservedly and the first of a grin stole over her face. "A good point, my dear," he said, "but I'll be glad to hear of your own when you get one."

Only half an hour later, Brewster entered the office of Messrs. Grant & Ripley, flushed, eager and rhapsodic of the big splash of mind that decorated his cheek.

"Awfully sorry to have kept you waiting," he apologized.

"Sherlock Holmes would say that you had been driving Mr. Brewster," said Mr. Ripley, shaking the young man's hand.

"He would say it, Mr. Ripley. I've been flying. What have you heard from Montana?" He could no longer check the impatient question, which came out so suddenly that the attorneys laughed irrespectably. Brewster joining them an instant later. They told him a half dozen telegrams, responses from bankers, lawyers and mine operators in Montana. These messages established beyond doubt the extent of James T. Sedgwick's wealth. It was reported to be even greater than shown by the actual figures.

"And what does Mr. Jones say?" demanded Montgomery.

"His reply resembles a press dispatch. He has tried to make himself thoroughly clear, and if there is anything left unsaid it is past our comprehension. I am sorry to inform you, though, that he has paid the telegraph charges," said Mr. Grant, smiling broadly.

"Is he rational about it?" asked Montgomery nervously.

Mr. Grant gave his partner a quick, significant glance and then drew from his desk the voluminous telegram from Swearingen Jones. It was as follows:

Oct. 2.
Grant & Ripley, Yucatan Building, New York:
I am to be sole referee in this matter. You are retained as my agents, both to report to me through you weekly. One desire of mine was to forestall grandfather's bequest. I shall respect that desire. Enforce terms rigidly. He gives as other millionaires do, with disposition of all this money. Shall attend to it secretly. Heir must get rid of money left to him in given time. Out of respect to memory of uncle he must take no one into his confidence. Don't want world to think S. was a fool. He wasn't. Here are rules I want him to work under: 1. No reckless gambling. 2. No idiotic board of trade speculation. 3. No endowments to institutions of any character, because their memory would be an invisible asset. 4. No indiscriminate giving away of funds. By that I don't mean him to be stingy. I hate a stingy man, and so did J. T. S. 5. No more than ordinary dissipation. I hate a saint. So did J. T. S. And both of us sowed an oat or two. 6. No excessive donations to charity. If he gives as other millionaires do I'll let it go at that. Don't believe charity should be spoiled by indulgence. It is not easy to spend a million, and I won't be unreasonable with him. Let him spend it freely, but not foolishly, and get his money's worth out of it. If he does that I'll consider him a good business man. I regard it foolish to tip water more than dollar, and car porter does not deserve over five. He does not earn more than one. If he wants to try for this big stake, he'd better begin quick, because he might slip up if he waits until day of judgment. It's less than year off. Luck to him. J. W. JONES

"Write more fully!" echoed Montgomery. "What can there be left to write about?"

"He is explicit," said the attorney, "but it is best to know all the conditions before you decide. Have you made up your mind?"

Brewster sat silent for a long time, staring hard at the door. A great struggle was going on in his mind. "It's a gamble, and a big one," he said at last, squaring his shoulders, "but I'll take it. I don't want to appear disloyal to my grandfather, but I think that even he would advise me to accept. Yes, you may write Mr. Jones that I accept the chance."

The attorneys complimented him on his nerve and wished him success. Brewster turned, with a smile.

staring hard at the door. A great struggle was going on in his mind. "It's a gamble, and a big one," he said at last, squaring his shoulders, "but I'll take it. I don't want to appear disloyal to my grandfather, but I think that even he would advise me to accept. Yes, you may write Mr. Jones that I accept the chance."

"What have you heard from Montana?"

"I'll begin by asking what you think a reasonable fee for an attorney in a case of this kind. I hope you will act for me."

"You don't want to spend it all in a lump, do you?" asked Mr. Grant, smiling. "We can hardly act as counsel for both you and Mr. Jones."

"But I must have a lawyer, and the will limits the number of my confidants. What am I to do?"

"We will consult Mr. Jones in regard to the question. It is not regular, you see, but I apprehend no legal difficulties. We cannot accept fees from both sides, however," said Mr. Grant.

"But I want attorneys who are willing to help me. It won't be a help if you decline to accept my money."

"We'll resort to arbitration," laughed Ripley.

Before night Montgomery Brewster began a career that would have startled the world had the facts been known. With true loyalty to the Little Sons of the Rich, he asked his friends to dinner and opened their eyes.

"Champagne!" cried Harrison as they were seated at table. "I can't remember the last time I had champagne."

"Naturally," laughed Subway Smith. "You couldn't remember anything after that."

As the dinner progressed Brewster explained that he intended to double his fortune within a year. "I'm going to have some fun, too," he said, "and you boys are to help me."

Nopper Harrison was employed as "superintendent of affairs," Elton Gardner as financial secretary, Joe Bragdon as private secretary, Subway Smith as counsel, and there were places in view for the other members.

"I want the smartest apartment you can find, Nopper," he commanded. "Don't stop at expense. Have Pettin'gill redecorate it from top to bottom. Get the best servants you can find. I'm going to live, Nopper, and hang the consequences."

Held on Suspicion.

Brazil, Ind., July 11.—Jess Sluder, suspected of being implicated in the murder of Roll Cardwell in Coalmont Sunday, was arrested in Hymera and brought to jail here. He denies the shooting. Sluder admits intimacy with Mrs. Cardwell when the two families lived in Hymera, and it is believed that he intended to kill the woman instead of Cardwell.

Many Bridges Washed Away.

Evansville, Ind., July 11.—A terrible rain fell in this end of the state last night. In this city the streets were tied up for two hours and many cellars were flooded. Reports received from nearby points say many bridges are washed away and creeks are swollen. The rainfall in many sections amounted to almost a cloudburst.

Serious Fight at Havana.

HAVANA, July 11.—Fights here last night between Cuban artillerymen and civilians resulted in the killing of one person, the mortal wounding of two and the wounding of many more.

JOY FELT BY JAPS

After Forty Years They Are Again in Possession of Sakhalin.

IT WAS A BAD BARGAIN

When They Let Go of It They Recognized That They Had Not Done Well.

Now That The Might of Their Arms Has Restored It to Them They Are Glad.

Tokio, July 11.—The announcement of the landing of a Japanese force at Sakhalin marks the first entry of the Japanese upon Russian territory proper. The Japanese have expressed themselves pleased to be again in possession of the island, declaring that they have long felt that the bargain under which they relinquished the place forty years ago was unsatisfactory. The Japanese express the belief that they will speedily control the entire island, as they regard the garrison there as being incapable of serious resistance and are confident that it will certainly be captured.

WITH LITTLE RESISTANCE

How the Japs Took Possession of the Island of Sakhalin.

Tokio, July 11.—The following report has been received from the Japanese army headquarters on Sakhalin Island: "Our army without much resistance occupied Korasakorski early on July 8. The enemy burned the town and retired to positions eight miles north, where they resumed resistance. We dislodged them and are now in pursuit. At 11 a. m. on July 8 the enemy had retreated to a point twenty-two miles north of Korasakorski. We captured two 12-centimeter guns, two 12-pounders and also an amount of ammunition. We suffered no loss."

Admiral Katoka reports under date of July 7 as follows: "My squadron went north and, acting in conformity with a prearranged plan, landed marines on July 7 at a point previously chosen. There was no resistance and a portion of our army had already been landed."

Under date of July 8 Katoka reports: "One of our torpedo boat destroyers reports on the afternoon of July 7 that Korasakorski was burning. The forts previously shelled by the destroyer were then silent. Our army arrived at Yenguma on the afternoon of the 7th."

Under date of July 9 Admiral Katoka says: "The squadron conveyed the transports through dense fogs on July 5. The fleet preserved good order and reached the point chosen for concentration on the evening of July 7. The fleet anchored and the work of sweeping the sea of dangerous obstacles was completed. The transports were led in gradually. The warships lowered launches and assisted in landing troops, guardships protecting the operation. Admiral Dewa reported that his division had reached the landing place at 5 a. m., and a landing was effected. A reconnaissance was conducted, but no defenses were found. Only three guards were discovered. The flotilla engaged in sweeping the sea for dangerous obstacles encountered heavy currents, but speedily pressed the work. A portion of the squadron and the transports were led through the cleared space and marines were landed from the combined division. Later the army relieved the marines. Our sweeping division was suddenly shelled from the hills south of Korasakorski. The army reported by wireless on July 8 that Korasakorski had been taken. Our flags are visible at several points. We were apprehensive on account of the weather, but the work of the fleet was successfully accomplished. Admiral Nakao reconnoitered in the vicinity of the island, but nothing unusual was discovered. Early on Sunday three warships and two destroyers were dispatched to Yensuma cape. Later a destroyer entered Rolisel and was vigorously shelled by a field piece. We returned the fire and silenced the enemy's guns."

Who Will Settle?

Odessa, July 11.—The authorities here have been informed that the Kntaz Potemkine has sailed from Kustentz, Roumania, for Sebastopol. The question of insurance on property lost by fire in the harbor during the recent disturbances is occasioning serious disputes between the Russian and the foreign insurance companies. The foreign corporations declare that they will make claims against the Russian government. The claimants number about 400 and the total losses are now estimated at $20,000,000.

Fiery News Messengers.

Singapore, Manchuria, July 11.—The news of the mutiny in the Black Sea reached the Russian army through the Japanese, who fired night shells charged with proclamations conveying the information into the Russian advanced posts, scattering the proclamation broadcast.

TOWN SHAKEN UP

Maniac Causes $100,000 Loss by Dynamite at Iola, Kan.

Iola, Kan., July 11.—Three saloons, the Eagle, the Blue Front and the Red Light, in West street, in the heart of the business section of Iola, were completely wrecked by dynamite. Much damage was done to other property in the vicinity, and the loss is estimated at $100,000. The mayor has sworn in a large number of deputies, who are patrolling the streets to preserve order. That the outrage was committed by an irresponsible person was made clear when a number of letters were received by a local newspaper from a man signing the name "C. L. Helvin," who is in hiding in this vicinity. The tenor of the letters indicates that the writer is insane and that he blew up the saloons.

Wanted Law Enforced.

Iola, Kan., July 11.—E. H. Funston, ex-congressman and father of Brigadier General Funston, was arrested here last night charged with inflammatory utterances. Mr. Funston in talking of the explosion which blew up three saloons here, said the occurrence would have been avoided if the officers of the law had done their duty in enforcing the law. Funston resisted the policeman who attempted to arrest him and a fight resulted in which the policeman struck Funston, strapped him to his buggy and took him to jail. Later Funston was released and he swore out a warrant for the policeman. The policeman charged that Funston came to town with a revolver and a Winchester, that he bought some cartridges and had them in the buggy when arrested. Funston is a radical law enforcement man. His hearing was set for next Saturday.

BANDITS AT WORK

Cuba Has a Gang That Would Do Credit to Old Times.

Santiago, Cuba, July 11.—Julian Cendoya, the wealthy American banker and agent of the Ward line, while dining with his family at his home across the bay, was attacked by eight bandits who covered the members of the family with firearms and searched the house. The bandits presented a written demand for $10,000 and seized Mr. Cendoya as a hostage until the amount should be paid. After parleying Mr. Cendoya came to the city and secured the money, which he turned over to the bandits at a rendezvous in the bay. According to reports the bandits are all Spaniards and desperate looking. One of them has been recognized as a boatman who was formerly engaged in the work of salvage on Admiral Cervera's battleships.

ENGLAND'S PERIL

Her Army Is in No Position to Uphold Vaunted Prestige.

IT IS TOTALLY UNFIT

That is the Opinion of Field Marshal
Roberts Who of All Men Ought to Know.People of England Scathingly Attacked For Lack of National Feeling.

London, July 11.—Field Marshal Lord Roberts created a sensation in the house of lords last evening when in a lengthy and well-considered speech he deliberately expressed his opinion as a practical soldier that the military force of Great Britain was inadequate, imperfectly trained and totally unfit to uphold Great Britain as a first-class power. Lord Roberts did not blame the government, which he said was actuated by a national feeling, but he scathingly attacked the people of England, who he said showed no national feeling toward the military until danger arose. Then, said Lord Roberts, the soldier was the pet of the people, but this was only an evanescent enthusiasm which did not entail self-sacrifice and passed away as soon as the danger disappeared.

The speech was delivered in connection with a motion introduced by the Earl of Weymouth and March (Conservative), traversing Premier Balfour's statement regarding the impossibility of the invasion of Great Britain and urging the necessity of keeping up sufficient land forces to repel any possible invasion.

Lord Roberts said the lessons of the South African war had been forgotten. He had no hesitation in saying that the armed forces of Great Britain as a body were now as absolutely unfitted and unprepared for war as they were when the South African trouble broke out. He declared emphatically that the choice lay between conscription or some practical system of universal training, and that only by such means would it be possible for Great Britain to possess armed forces organized and trained to meet the demands of the empire in the event of war.

Lord Roberts also asserted that any discussion of Great Britain's military position within the limits of the motion proposed by the Earl of Weymouth and March would be entirely unavailing. The country had to deal with a question of infinitely great importance, the question of the life or death of the empire, the issue of which depended upon Great Britain being ready to defend her Eastern possessions and at the same time take part in any affair nearer home, either of which necessitated the placing in the field of an army as large and efficient as the army of any other country, all of which might be regarded as nations in arms. Every other country regarded its army as part of the nation, while England considered her army to be something quite outside the national life, and no thought was bestowed upon it by the civil population except as part of a political and partisan platform. He appealed to the country to awake itself to the danger and look upon the army as what it really is. He said the whole empire must rise to the occasion and that everyone must personally bear a share in the defense or enable those to whom responsibility was delegated to become efficient.

Russell Succeeds Bowen.

Washington, July 11.—Formal announcement is made at the department of state of the appointment of William Russell of Maryland as minister to Venezuela, where he succeeds Mr. Bowen. Mr. Russell was formerly secretary of legation at Caracas and was sent from there to Bogota as minister to Colombia, where he has been relieved by Mr. Barrett.

Those Equitable Suits.

New York, July 11.—Samuel Untermyer, chief counsel for James H. Hyde, sailed for Europe today for a two months' visit and vacation. It is stated on good authority that the suits to be brought by the attorney general will be against all of the directors and the members of the executive committee collectively and not individually.

Made Death Certain.

Springfield, Ill., July 11.—Dr. E. E. Holroyd of Chicago and formerly from Alabama, committed suicide at Nilwood by taking carbolic acid, strychnine and arsenic. He had received news of financial reverses from Alabama, where his widow and four children live. He was forty-five years old.

A Change of Jails.

Georgetown, Ky., July 11.—Caleb Powers left last evening in charge of United States Marshal Sharpe for the jail at Newport, where he will be confined according to Judge Cochran's orders until the supreme court shall pass on his case.

Caught by Engine.

Greensburg, Ind., July 11.—Harry Mowry of Indianapolis, aged thirty-two years, a Big Four brakeman, was killed in the yards here. He was knocked down by an engine and his head and right arm were severed from the body.

Dyspepsia of Women

ABSOLUTELY NEEDLESS AGONY

Caused by Uterine Disorders and Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

A great many women suffer with a form of indigestion or dyspepsia which does not seem to yield to ordinary treatment. While the symptoms seem to be similar to those of ordinary indigestion, yet the medicines universally prescribed do not seem to restore the patient's normal condition.

Mrs. Pinkham claims that there is a kind of dyspepsia that is caused by a derangement of the female organism, and which, while it causes a disturbance similar to ordinary indigestion, cannot be relieved without a medicine which not only acts as a stomach tonic, but has peculiar uterine-tonic effects also.

As proof of this theory we call attention to the case of Mrs. Maggie Wright, Brooklyn, N. Y., who was completely cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after everything else had failed. She writes:

"For two years I suffered with dyspepsia which so degenerated my entire system that I was unable to attend to my daily duties. I felt weak and nervous, and nothing that I ate tasted good and it caused a disturbance in my stomach. I tried different dyspepsia cures, but nothing seemed to help me. I was advised to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, and was happily surprised to find that it acted like a fine tonic, and in a few days I began to enjoy and properly digest my food. My recovery was rapid, and in five weeks I was a well woman. I have recommended it to many suffering women. No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement, or has such a record of cures of female troubles, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Effort to Save Prisoner.

Owensboro, Ky., July 11.—John Clark, a negro, was arrested at Central City, Muhlenberg county, on a charge of attempting to commit criminal assault on the wife of the Rev. William Woodson. News of the attempted assault spread rapidly, and it is said mobs were forming all over the county. The marshal at Central City removed the negro to Greenville, the county seat. Excitement was high there and he was later removed to Madisonville, Hopkins county. Mrs. Woodson is a member of one of the most prominent families in Muhlenberg county. The negro says his home is in New Orleans.

China Emphasizes Demand.

St. Petersburg, July 11.—China in the request which she proffered to Russia and Japan to be represented at the Washington conference practically served notice on them that unless that privilege is accorded her she will refuse to be bound by the treaty so far as it affects Chinese territory. Russia is understood not to be averse to the Chinese proposition, but Japan declined to agree to it.

Meeting Place Fixed.

Washington, July 11.—Assistant Secretary Peirce announces that the plenipotentiaries of Russia and Japan have agreed on Portsmouth, N. H., as the meeting place of the sessions of the peace conference to be held outside of Washington. The sessions will be held in the government navy yards at Portsmouth, in the new building just completed.

BECAUSE Governor Hanly, like Governor Folk, of Missouri, is old fashioned enough to believe that all the laws of the state should be obeyed some few people criticize him. But why? Is he wrong in the position he takes? The masses of the people believe he is right.

THE grafters in public places are being found out and deposed. The demand is for honest men. Men in business do not knowingly employ dishonest men in responsible places. The people have no more use for the grafter than the business man has for a thief.

THOSE who hold insurance policies in the Equitable should rejoice that rottenness connected with the management of that great society is being exposed. Their policies are all good and the investigation will be economy to the society in the long run. Other insurance companies will be prompted to be careful and conservative. It has been costing too much money to run the big insurance companies. Too many extravagant salaries.

Germans Chortle With Glee.

Berlin, July 11.—The agreement between France and Germany on the subject of Morocco cannot but be regarded here as a diplomatic success of the first importance over both Great Britain and France, although it is expressed in terms of great moderation, the agreement being referred to as "an accord based on a full appreciation and recognition of each government's rights and aims."

The Mantlepiece Bottle Experiment.

You find yourself on a picnic perhaps without a corker and with a lot of bottles, all of them with corks in them. Hardly anybody knows what to do. The solution of the difficulty is, however, it seems, perfectly simple: "Place the bottle, cork downward, upon the edge of an ordinary mantlepiece, steadying it, of course, with the hand. Then with a slight impulse turn it so that it falls upon the ground on its base. Pick it up, and you will find that the cork has started. It is sometimes necessary to repeat the operation before the cork can be withdrawn with the fingers. A first experiment with a full bottle of water tightly corked is advisable. A fall direct from that height will have no desirable result."

The present writer can testify to the efficacy of this "minor art." He had, it is true, to arrange his picnic in an ordinary room so as to have the mantlepiece handy. But there was no difficulty after turning the bottle on its base, "with a slight impulse," in extracting the cork from the ruins. There was no need to repeat the operation.—London Spectator.

May Weddings.

May weddings are supposed by many persons to be unlucky. It is a heritage from the ancient Romans. A May bride, says Ovid, is short lived, his explanation being that the month included the celebration of the Lemuria in honor of the dead. Apart from any evil omen, such a time of mourning would interfere with the bathing and toilet arrangements that were proper preliminaries to weddings. Plutarch suggests that, as April was the month of Venus and June that of Juno, to select May was to slight those nuptial goddesses and that June, as the month of the young (Juniore), was preferable to May, the month of the old (majores). Ovid's "Mense malas maia nuptes vulgus ait" (there is a popular saying that wicked women wed in May) was inscribed on the gate of Hollywood when Mary, queen of Scots, married Bothwell in May, 1567. What followed strengthened Scottish belief in May's inauspiciousness.

Hugh Fish and family visited relatives at Norman Station Sunday.

One Dollar Saved Represents Ten Dollars Earned.

The average man does not save to exceed ten per cent of his earnings. He must spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved. That being the case he cannot be too careful about unnecessary expenses. Very often a few cents properly invested, like buying seeds for his garden, will save several dollars outlay later on. It is the same in buying Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It costs but a few cents, and a bottle of it in the house often saves a doctor's bill of several dollars. For sale by C. W. Milhous.

CARMILL.

After an absence of several weeks we will again send in a few of the happenings of our vicinity.

Frank Ackerman, who was very sick last week, is recovering.

Misses Ethel and Myrtle Smith and little brother Paul, visited in the family of F. A. Smith Saturday and Sunday.

Marion Wheeler and wife were at Evansville, Ind., several days last week.

J. W. Smith came over from Enfield with a load of baled hay Tuesday and heard Carrie Nattin discuss the evils of liquor.

Quite a number of friends and relatives called on F. A. Smith and family Sunday and spent the day very pleasantly.

L. M. Cross, the old reliable fisherman, is engaged in his favorite sport and is landing some fine specimens.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

With LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease, Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

SEEING AMERICA.

Wonderful Scenic Trip Across Rocky Mountains to Oregon Exposition.

In certain respects the excursions to the Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition, Portland, Oregon, via Pennsylvania Lines, beginning May 23rd and continuing through the summer, offer advantages never before presented to Exposition visitors. The trip to the Oregon Exposition, in addition to the attractiveness of the extensive exhibits, includes the journey through the scenic wonderland of the Rocky Mountains and the Cascade Range, and what American has not looked forward from the days of the geography class in school to the time when those great sights should be seen in reality? The time was never so favorable as now. The trip may be made less expensive than ever. For only a slight difference in fare tourists may extend their trip to San Francisco and Los Angeles. The return trip may be made over a different route, enabling travelers to view much more of the west. For full particulars, fares, dates of special excursions to Portland on account of conventions, through time and passenger service apply to ticket agent of Pennsylvania Lines.

Excursion tickets will be sold via Pennsylvania Lines as follows:

Condition Serious.

August Keel, a prominent farmer residing near Jonesville, is reported to be in a serious condition from blood poisoning. Several days ago while cutting wheat the team hitched to the reaper ran away. By some means he got in front of the machine and received a bad wound. This did not heal properly and finally blood poison was the result.

DYNAMITERS

Apprehended By Deputy Fish Commissioner.

Deputy Fish Commissioner E. E.
Richard Monday filed affidavits against Addison Wait, George Wait and William West, of this city, charging them with violations of the fish law.
The three men are alleged to have thrown dynamite in White river near Azalia and the deputy commissioner has four or five witnesses to prove that the men did what they are alleged to have done.

Deputy Earl has been at work on these cases for some time and believes that he has sure cases against each of the three—Columbus Republican.

It is evident that special deputies are still looking after violators of the fish law along White river in Bartholomew and Jackson counties.
They have had information of dynam-iters, owners of fish nets and operators of "hedges." It is said that Fish Commissioner Sweeney is determined to see that the law is enforced.

ARCHITECT FREE.

Young Man who did Work Here
Gets His Liberty.

J. Harrison Taylor, Robert Sieg, or Richard Cantwell or Charles Feig, or whoever he is, was acquitted of the charge of larceny in Judge Coulter's court Monday. In other words, Gault & Gault, the architects, failed to make their case against him and he was given his liberty. He was not long to enjoy it however, and was rearrested soon after from a complaint from Olney charging him with obtaining money by false pretenses. He was detained at headquarters till almost 10 o'clock Monday night waiting to hear from his father at South Bend and finally the Chief of Police telephoned Sergeant Ike McNeil that the money, $28.00, had been placed in his hands and to give Taylor, or Sieg, his liberty. The amount of the bill he owed at Olney was $28.00 and it was settled. The prisoner when he was released left on the midnight B. & O.
train east for Columbus where he has been at work.—Vincennes Commercial.

This young man of many aliases was here this morning on his way to Columbus where he had work as a draftsman when he was arrested. He had charge of some work in this city and was here several times. He is certainly a capable fellow and personally he is quite congenial.

RAILROAD RUMBLINGS.

C. C. Frey, B. & O. S-W. agent, is sick.

Chas. Bishop, former B. & O. conductor, is in the city.

G. A. Sheer, B. & O. S-W. agent at Jeffersonville, and Miss Annis Harris were married Monday afternoon. They have gone east on a ten day's wedding trip.

Thos. Gore, formerly telegraph operator here, is now installed as one of the ticket agents at the interurban terminal station, Indianapolis. He has been at Seymour for some years.
His salary is increased by the change $340 a year.—Franklin Star.

Threshing Interrupted.

The frequent showers since Saturday have retarded wheat threshing. The farmers who still have wheat in the shock are getting a little restless.
They are very anxious for the rains to cease until they get through threshing for continued rains for a few days more would start some of the wheat sprouting. The farmers through this section have a great wheat crop and they are able to market it at a good price. The price paid in Seymour is better than is being paid at any other point in this part of the state. Several thousand bushels of Bartholomew county wheat has been marketed here since threshing begun.

Evangelistic Meetings.

The gospel meetings being conduced in the city park are growing in interest. Despite the frequent showers good crowds are present at the different services. The evangelists are being heard with unusual interest. The public is invited to each of these meetings.

DIED.

CUSSED IN COURT.

One of the North Vernon Papers Speaks as Follows.

"We see by one of our Scottsburg exchanges where S. B. Wells, ex-Prosecuting Attorney in this judicial district, said "Dam" the other day in court and the new judge straightway had a fit. But the meanest part of all was for the Scottsburg paper to air the matter; but that's what Wells gets for living in a measly county like Scott. If he lived in Jennings he could cuss till he was black in the face and we'd never mention it. We never have mentioned Fitzgerald's fluency in cussing, nor never will, and yet we'd be willing to bet a week's salary he's got Wells skinned a black.

PLANTING MONEY

In your house in the shape of good, honest, thoroughly seasoned, and therefore damp-resisting, lumber, always pays in the long run. Less repairs, for one thing; fewer eyesores in the shape of warped, twisted and generally shrunk-out-of-shape window and doors for another. Honest lun-eer awaits your call at this yard

If you knew how cheap artistic wall paper is at our store, you wouldn't let those rooms go another season with their old wall covering.

Freshen them up, it'll cost you but little, and means lots of comfort.
